A PURITAN JUDGE.

One Rev. E. E. Gillenwaters having been elected a Judge of the First Judiopens his Courts with prayer. He promised before his election to " administer justice according to Radical ideas," and his proceedings on the bench are said to be very affecting, moving citi-

You, gentlemen of the jury, are solemnly sworn to try the issues of this cause, under the law as it shall be given to you by the Court. This is an action While commanding in the army, Gentlement of the jury, are solemnly sworn to try the issues of this seeks to redress private grievances through a public agency. brought by James Smith against Thos. Robinson on a mule for damages. Some of the lawyers have told you that this is an action of Trover. The Court tells you it matters not whether it is Trover or not, the thing in consideration, in the first place, is a mule. You have been referred by learned counsel to some gentlemen by the name of Blackstone, Kent, Chitty, Greenleaf, Coke, etc., but, although the Court is not very well acquainted with the gentlemen mentioned, it will charge you that etc., but, although the Court is not very well acquainted with the gentlemen ementioned, it will charge you that according to its best information they are all profane writers, and are not entitled to any respect or authority in a Christian and loyal community, for gentlemen, Christianity and loyalty go hand in hand. To be loyal, a man must be a Christian—hence it follows these profane writers, who are but "lewd fellows of the baser sort," cannot be regarded by you, in your deliberations as a Christian jury. Therefore, we must recur to first principles. We must go to the source of law. That source is the Almighty, himself, and the manifestations of His law were first made through Moses, who was made the leader of the children of Laval. It is not for. Probably, at this moment, bills for such arms are pending to the amount of $59,000. contracted by General Butler, and never paid, because they were contracted without proper authority.

Now, we are far from saying that but have pursued any other course in the premises than he is now pursuing. We premises than he is now pursuing. We do not mean even to intimate that had the officers of the Ordnance Bureau pursued all the warlike engines he took a fancy to, and approved and paid his bills, instead of leaving them as they are, distinct the source of law. That source is the Almighty, himself, and the manifestations of His law were first made through Moses, who was made the leader of the tions of His law were first made through Moses, who was made the leader of the children of Israel. It is true there is a second law—the law of the New Testament. But, gentlemen, this only applies to a Christian, and not have engaged in the present investigation. Indeed, we trust he would have set it on foot and made it quite as thorough and searching as possible, for such examinations are always wholesome. But, in that law is to be administered in this ideas. Hence, I say to you that the laws of Moses are the true laws—modified to suit the purposes of the rulers. Now, as to the case in point. James of Moses are the true laws—modified to suit the purposes of the rulers. Now, as to the case in point. James of Moses are the true laws—modified to suit the purposes of the rulers. Now, as to the case in point. James of Moses are the true laws—modified to suit the purposes of the rulers. Now, as to the case in point. James of the rulers the family ought to have a mule or not. But, gentlemen of the jury, talking about this mule brings us back to the about this mule brings us back to the consideration of carnal and earthly things. What was the law of Moses? Let your minds follow him through the wilderness. See how they rebelled against the authority of the Almighty. Often was the Divine anger kindled at their rebellion, but they would not believe THE Commercial Advertiser has rebellion, but they would not believe. leased the old New York Sun building This shows you, gentlemen, that rebels are not to be trusted at all; and furthermore, we are shown that the sons of Amelek were destrayed because they re> bellion-another striking instance of Divine rebuke to rebellion. This case, nominally, involves a mule for damages. The Court has no right to say what is the value of that mule. As he stands, the Court would say (what is the writ, Mr. Clerk? Answer, $10,000) that he is worth about $25,000 if well fed belled against Moses, and this is another reason why the loyal people should be preserved. Again: Korah and his host vere swallowed up because of their rein Tennessee. But you, gentlemen, are judges of the testimeny in cases of this sort. This mule, it seems, belongs to, or did belong to, a Union man. The defendant was a rebel-a vile rebel. Now, gentlemen, the question arises what is a rebel and what is a Union man? I mean a loyal man, a Christian man. According to the principles already laid down by the Court you will have no difficulty in seeing who were loyal in the olden time. Look to Daniel in the lion's den. Who but a loyal man could have been saved? See

Now you will observe that in my charge the rebels' grain; Judith in her attempts upon the rebel Holofernes, and various other matters I have not thought proper to speak of. Mr. Charles A. Dana, Late Assistant Sec-retary of War, on Some of Mr. Ben. Butler's Malice.

From the New York Sun.] If we can judge by the reports which cial Circuit in East Tennessee, is from time to time appear in the journals, General B. F. Butler is engaged in a very elaborate campaign against Gen.

Dyer, the Chief of the Bureau of Ordnance in the War Department. As the head of an investigating committee, appointed jointly by the two Houses of Congress, General Butler seems to be not merely inquiring into all the trans-actions of the Ordnance Bureau, which zens, juries and criminals to tears, and possessing uncommon unction. The first case on trial coming at Rogersville, distinguished representative of Massawas an action of Trover for a mule, and chusetts would have shown a nicer sense the following is the report of his honor's charge to the jury, which we take from the Herald:

It is true the proof shows that the mule was blind, that it had not been able to work for three or four years; been able to work for three or four years; been able to work for three or four years; been able to work for three or four years; been able to work for three or four years; but possibly, in regard to the some times, but possibly, in regard to the family. And the Court is compelled to weapons of Sawyer and Gatnell, his judg-say that it is not satisfactory whether ment was not so good as that of General ment was not so good as that of General Butler. These are questions which only experts can decide, and about which the highest authorities will differ. But with

- Hard Times at the East.

A New York correspondent of a Chicago cotemporary, speaking of the har times, says: There is no doubt there is at present more cause for such an outery than almost ever before. Beggars-usually men who look as if they are able to earn a living—will stop the wayfarer, espe-cially in the side streets, to beg for money enough for a meal of victuals or a night's lodging. The police stations are overcrowded every night by appli-cants for the privilege of shelter for the night; and these applicants all tell the same story of want of work, and of inability to support their families. As yet there have been no cases of violence, bu it is difficult to say when the wide spread destitution may not lead desperate men to deeds from which in happier times they would shrink with honest horror. Most of the manufacturing establishments are running on short time. and quite a number have suspended ope rations. The great machine shops of the city employ only about half the hands they did a couple of years ago. Working men are pertinaciously urged by the New York Tribune to "go out West;" but they did not know how or where to go, and, perhaps, would fare no better when they got out there. In the mercantile circles the failures, numerous as they are, do not nearly ap proach in numbers the compromises and private arrangements, known only to in-solvent firms and to their creditors.

Drendful Death.

Yesterday afternoon a young man, painter by trade, named Patrick Russell and well known in the community, met a sudden and awful death, under the following circumstances: He had been employed to repaint the spire of the First Presbyterian Church, and had rigged up the necessary seat-ladders and pulleys to effect the job. Returning from his dinner yesterday afternoon, he ascended the steeple from the stairway inside the edifice until he got to the last and highest window in the church, a distance from the ground of about one hundred and fifty feet. Here his outside operations had to begin, and while getting out of the window to the rope to which his seat was attached, be lost his hold and was pre-cipitated to the ground. He struck the successive projections of the steeple in his fall to the roof of the main edifice, down which he rolled to the eaves and fell into the lane south of the church, striking the iron railing in his descent.
Of course when he was picked up he was fearfully mangled and dead. The deceased was a native of Harlem, New York; has left no family; has been in Savannah for some time, and was for-merly an employe of Messra. Murphy & Clark. His remains were taken to the City Hospital.—Savannah News and Herald, 8th inst.

NO. 37 UNION STREET, MEMPHIS, TENN. PRIZE No. 1.—The celebrated RALEIGH MINERAL SPRINGS, situated on the confines of Raleigh, late county seat of Shelby county, Tenn., nine miles northeast of Memphis, and two miles from Wells' station, on the Memphis and Louisville railroad. These Springs are six in number, of various mineral and medicinal qualities, and are visited every Summer by thousands of seakers of health and pleasure, from all quarters of the country. They are within a few steps of the village of They are within a few steam of the village of Raleigh, in a beautiful valley, and also within a few hundred feet of Wolf river, which wind a around the base of the eminence on which the village of Raleigh is situated, and empties into the "Fisher of Waters" at Memphis. Numerous remarkable cures of various diseases have been experienced by sojourners at this beathinspiring retreat, and the present proprietor. Col. J. M. Celeman, san produce hundreds of certificates of cures in cases which had been entirely given over by medical skill. The ground surrounding the Springs, and in fact the entire village of Raleigh, rises to an eminence of pure air, and is as remarkable for its healthing is as beauty of location. The Springs are in five order, never falling, and are designated as follows:

Box Spring. Magnolia Spring, Arsenic Spring, Sulphur Spring,

Freestone Spring

Sulphur Spring.

Freestone Spring
The place has never been visited by opidemic of any kind, and seculiarly characteristic of its healthfulness is the longevity of the inhabitants. The oldest citizens of Shelby county are residents of Raleigh.

The Springs are as much resorted to by pleasure-seekers as by invalids, owing to beauty of seenery and various artificial as well as natural attractions. Connected with the Springs are a Pavillon, Ladies' Bowling Alley, Rustic Arbors, Reading Saloon, Gents' Bowling Alley, Saloon, Billiard Room, Gymnasiums, Refreshment Tables, etc., while Wolf river affords excellent Boating and Fishing.

The ground accomplying the Springs, in the above scheme and included in the First Prize, is fifteen acres the extent, overlooking the valley, and affords, in addition to a magnificent site for a stand hotel and other buildings, splendid facilities for a park, promenades, etc.

An analysis of the several Springs, by distinguished medical men, shows that they are ousurpassed in mineral and curative proporties by any in the United States. There is no reason then why Raleish should not become as famous as Saratopa, Sharon or Lebanon, and as largely patronized. It needs only capital and enterprise to accomplish this end.

A charter is before the State Legislature for the incorporation of the Springs, and a movement has been inaugurated looking to direct rail comminication with Memphis.

For this prize, $20,000 was recently offered, which was declined, in order that the above scheme may be fully carried out.
